It's easy to search Wikibooks by topic, and there are separate sections for recipes and childrens' texbooks. You can download any page as a PDF using a link provided in the left-hand menu, but unfortunately there's no support for other formats. There's also Collection Creator - a handy tool that lets you collate several pages, organize them, and export them together (again, in PDF format). It's a nice feature that enables you to customize your reading material, but it's a bit of a hassle, and is really designed for readers who want printouts. The easiest way to read Wikibooks is simply to open them in your web browser.

Rectoverso Dee

Dee is one of my favorite Indonesian writer I can proud of. Her writing masterpieces are amazing, starts from the way she writes and the chosen words she put on her novels with such a unique concept. Rectoverso is one of her novels which I like the most. She combines each story on the book with a song that reflects the story.

Two years later, Dee released Rectoverso, a "hybrid" of an album and a short story collection. The project started in 2006 when she wrote the song "Hanya Isyarat" ("Only a Sign") and, unsatisfied, wrote a short story with the "same theme and inspiration"; from this seemingly different but "actually one and complementary" arrangement, she derived the title.
